Rincon Tribe Donates $25,000 to Feeding San Diego to Help Fight Hunger This Holiday Season

VALLEY CENTER, Calif. — The Rincon Band of Luiseño Indians has donated $25,000 to Feeding San Diego to support local hunger-relief efforts and help provide nutritious food to families facing food insecurity throughout San Diego County this holiday season.

The donation was presented on October 28, 2026, at Feeding San Diego's headquarters in Sorrento Valley. The contribution will help support the organization's efforts to rescue and distribute nutritious food to individuals and families in need across the region.

As the holiday season approaches, the donation reflects the Rincon Tribe's ongoing commitment to being a good neighbor and supporting organizations that address critical needs in surrounding communities.

“No family should have to worry about where their next meal will come from, especially during the holiday season,” said Steve Stallings, Chairman of the Rincon Band of Luiseño Indians. “As a Tribe, we believe in taking care of our neighbors and giving back to the communities we share. We're proud to partner with Feeding San Diego to help ensure more families across our region have access to the food and resources they need.”

Through partnerships with organizations like Feeding San Diego, the Rincon Tribe continues to invest in initiatives that strengthen communities and improve the quality of life for residents throughout San Diego County.
